Read This: Read Wins!

Your faithful reporter is fresh out of even the mundane ideas usually employed in this column to report the winners of the monthly drawings. Consequently, this month's column is relatively short and to the point. (Pause for reader's sigh of relief.)

George Read won the volunteer prize drawing at the July meeting, demonstrating that it is possible to win against great odds. (The term "great odds" refers to the laws of probability, not to the other members of the Group). George entered three tickets in the drawing, in startling contrast to the 4,139 tickets entered by another member, who shall remain nameless. It just goes to show what having the right person draw the tickets can do for you.

Joshua St. John (Bill's son) drew George's winning ticket after a careful, deliberate and thorough tactile examination of each and every ticket in the box. George then drew a red bead and selected a $25 gift certificate from Soft Warehouse as his prize. It will be awarded to him at the August meeting.

The winners of the drawing for free disk of the month certificates at the July meeting were Charles Fallen, Cletis Rumphs and Jim Dennis.

For the second month in a row, Ruben Avelar failed to appear to claim the prize he won at the May meeting -- a Curtis computer tool kit. Ruben, you get one more chance to claim it, but you have to do so in person. Come to the August meeting, and it's yours ("it" being the tool kit, not the meeting). Miss the August meeting, and who knows what may happen? The tool kit may be auctioned off. Or it may be retained by the Group as part of our equipment. Or it may be awarded to Charles Sullivan as a consolation prize, if he goes two months in a row without winning anything (fat chance). Anyway, a word to the wise: Come to the August meeting, or else....
